

A-WOW IGLI is a global female-based initiative that prepares girl ages 16-21 to assume active leadership roles in their community and global society. Through A-WOW IGLI, students embark upon a lifetime of meaningful participation. Training and exposure will help prepare them to become well-informed leaders and citizens. Emphases are placed on the connections between local and global conditions, challenges and opportunities. They are introduced to new ideas and perspectives, an acculturation which will help them become richer and stronger leaders in making the world a better place.
